WHAT IS BLOCKCHAIN?

A blockchain is a digital, decentralized ledger that records transactions and information across a network of computers. Think of it as a shared digital record book where new records are grouped into blocks and linked together in chronological order.

KEY FEATURES

- . Decentralized: No single computer or organization necessarily controls the entire network.
- . Transparent: Transactions can often be publicly viewed and verified.
- . Secure: Cryptographic techniques help protect the records.
- . Immutable: Confirmed records are generally difficult to alter without network consensus.
- . Traceable: Transactions can be followed through the blockchain.

WHAT IS SMART CONTRACT?

A smart contract is a computer program stored on a blockchain that automatically executes an agreement when predefined conditions are met.

Think of it like a digital agreement that enforces its own rules without requiring a middleman.

KEY FEATURES

- . Automatic: Executes programmed actions automatically.
- . Blockchain-based: Runs on a blockchain network such as Ethereum or BNB Smart Chain.
- . Transparent: The contract's code and transactions can generally be inspected publicly.
- . Tamper-resistant: Once deployed, its rules generally cannot be changed.
- . No traditional intermediary: The code handles the agreed transaction logic.

INTRODUCTION

A BNB Smart Chain (BSC) smart contract-based 3XSusu system combines the traditional concept of community savings with blockchain technology. 3XSusu is a community-based savings system in which trusted participants make regular contributions into a common pool and take turns receiving the agreed payout. By using a BSC smart contract, the rules of the 3XSusu arrangement can be encoded into self-executing blockchain software, allowing predefined conditions such as contributions, participant positions, and payouts to be automatically processed and enforced without requiring a central administrator to manually execute each transaction.
